

The Practice of Writing

"Small gems, the sort of essays you want to underline and commit to memory"

— Michiko Kakutani,
The New York Times

David Lodge

Author of THERAPY and THE ART OF FICTION

PR6062/L 822/1997

ex06 - 02

DAVID LODGE

The Practice of Writing

Essays, Lectures, Reviews and a Diary

PENGUIN BOOKS

جامعة بومرداس
كلية الآداب واللغات
مكتبة الكلية

رقم الجرد: 1/404
الشفرة: 808

جامعة بومرداس
كلية الآداب واللغات
مكتبة الكلية

رقم الجرد: 2981

Contents

Preface	ix
PART ONE: Novelists, Novels and "The Novel"
The Novelist Today: Still at the Crossroads?	3
Fact and Fiction in the Novel: An Author's Note	20
The Lives of Graham Greene	40
Lucky Jim Revisited	85
Sex, Creativity and Biography:
The Young D.H. Lawrence	98
Henry Green: A Writer's Writer's Writer	113
Joyce's Choices	123
The Making of "Anthony Burgess"	141
What Kind of Fiction Did Nabokov Write?
A Practitioner's View	150
Creative Writing: Can it/Should it be Taught?	170
The Novel as Communication	179
PART TWO: Mixed Media
Novel, Screenplay, Stage Play:
Three Ways of Telling a Story	201
Adapting Nice Work for Television	218
Adapting Martin Chuzzlewit	230
Through the No Entry Sign:
Deconstruction and Architecture	260
Harold Pinter's Last To Go :
A Structuralist Analysis	270
Playback: Extracts from a Writer's Diary	286
Index	335